Strike Postmortem

Before we close the chapter on the Ferry-Morse Seed Company strike I'd like to correct an erroneous impression that some union members may have assumed as a result of a column I wrote on the subject.

I am told that the thing that triggered their antipathy towards this newspaper was this statement:

"Things may be tough all over, but at this very minute there are an awful lot of people who never had it so good."

I do not retract the statement, but rather amplify it. I never had it so good as I do today, though I am working harder than I ever have in my life. We all are. Most people have good cars, some two or three; make better salaries, than ever before, and generally live on a higher level of environment.

Maybe if "we never had it so good" isn't quite right," let's say, "we never had so many opportunities for a good life as we do now."

How's that?

The Caboose and I...

We answered a question asked many times of us these past few days on the editorial page this week. It's about the lil red caboose!

The Election's Over

I don't know whether it's my imagination or whether the incidents are facts... but have you noticed that we're getting more traffic tickets these days than before the city elections?

Because a lot of the residents of Commercial Avenue park their vehicles on the bridge on Commercial Avenue, we're right vulnerable, we know. But honestly, I commented many times about our alleged violations during the campaign period with no little yellow envelopes on our windshields.

Speaking of violations and vulnerability, I'm wondering if we really should get all those tickets. Here's why.

There's a sign at the end of the bridge that says "No Parking Between Signs." But there's a little bit of confusion... we just can't find that other sign that we're parking between if we park on the bridge.

Then too, the curbs of the bridge are painted yellow, but there's no parking signs anywhere around. We'll pay 'em as we get 'em, but gee we wish we did have some parking space round here somewhere 'bouts... Free!

Y'all Come!

There's going to be a rather important meeting with some high level folks at the Derby Cafe Thursday night to talk about the Latin-American Friendship Center. Governors Louie Nunn and Buford Ellington are sending some top-flight people in here to help us get this project rolling. It would mean an awful lot if we had a good crowd there to let both State officials know that the community is behind the Center's proposal.

Because there are no funds available as yet to go after the project the dinner will be necessarily Dutch treat, with a planned menu.

If you are an individual who is interested in getting in industry for Fulton we think there is no better way than to help do what you can to get a giant tourist industry here.

And if you don't think the Friendship Center has no chance of becoming a reality, why not come to the meeting just the same to give us your views on the matter. Fulton needs you NOW.

The Christmas Plaza

Isn't that a festive sounding name? It is, and original too.

That's what the members of the Art Guild have dubbed the area next to the City Drug Company where Cabana City was located during the recent Banana Festival.

The ladies also refer to it as The Mall, which is another nice appendage.

Now here's a good project for some enterprising civic group. Some volunteer labor could be secured to paint the area up looking real pretty like, potted flowers could be planted along the way and many a gathering could be held right there in the heart of Lake Street.

Charles Reams, Nathan Wade, et al, don't you think this would be a good start on the City Beautification program?

Officials To Discuss Friendship Center

The opportunity to take some concrete action on a massive tourist industry is at hand today (Thursday.)

A dinner meeting at the Derby Cafe at 6:15 p. m. sharp, tonight, followed by a progress report on the Latin-American Friendship Center plans will be held with many local and area leaders and representatives from the governors of Tennessee and Kentucky.

It is the first time that a meeting, coordinating the tourist and industrial representatives of both states has been held in connection with the Friendship Center project.

A huge response has been received at the Chamber of Commerce from persons planning to attend the Dutch treat dinner. The meeting is planned to make future plans to establish the Latin - American Friendship Center here. Ken Hart, representing the

Eighth Festival To Be Staged September 10-12

The annual meeting of the International Banana Festival Board of Directors will be held, Thursday night December 11th, 7:30 p.m. in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce. This is a most important meeting.

This will be a combined meeting of the old 1969 Board and the appointees to the new 1970 Board. There will be a full financial report of the 1969 Festival followed by the election of new officers, president, first and second vice president, secretary and treasurer for 1970.

The date for the 1970 Festival has been set for September 10th, 11th, and 12th. Keep this in mind as you travel about the country and write your friends.

Children's Art Show, Choral Singing Guild's Presentation

The twin cities of Fulton-South Fulton will have the privilege of enjoying a Christmas Music and Art Festival sponsored by the Twin Cities' Art Guild, to encourage expressions of the real meaning of Christmas in painting, drawing and music.

Students in Fulton-South Fulton schools are urged to participate in this first Arts Festival. Students may submit work in oil, watercolor, pastel, pen and ink, pencil and crayola.

The work must be on white manilla paper or poster board. There will be four groups,

Union City Hiway Open For Traffic

For the past year, it has taken motorists approximately 6 to 10 minutes longer to drive to Union City, or vice versa. Since Highway 51 South was closed for construction, there have been numerous accidents. Many involved large trucks which had difficulty in making the sharp curves.

The highway was re-opened Monday, December 1, after a long awaited year. The cloverleaf is the junction of US 51 and the Purchase Parkway and is located just south of the Kentucky state line on the Union City-Fulton highway.

The following churches will participate as groups for the caroling around the Christmas tree: Antioch Baptist, First Baptist, South Fulton Baptist, First Christian and Trinity Episcopal, Cumberland Presbyterian, and the Fulton City Church of Christ. All work in lower grades must be turned in to teachers.

Three prizes in each group will be awarded; 1st, prize, a blue ribbon and $4.00; 2nd, prize, a red ribbon and $2.00; 3rd, prize, a white ribbon.

Name, grade and school must be written on the back of posters.

Entries will be received only on Friday, December 12, at the Chamber of Commerce Office at 302 Main Street.

All teachers in grades one through junior high are requested to deliver or send the posters to the Chamber of Commerce Office as early as possible on Friday, December 12.

Award winning posters, along with as many others as space permits, will be displayed in Christmas Plaza on Sunday evening, December 14, 1969. The hour will be announced later.

In connection with the Children's Art Exhibit, there will also be a Christmas carol program composed of children through the sixth grades.

Lt.-Gov. Wendell Ford

Lt.-Gov. Ford To Address Local Elks

Lt.-Gov. Wendell Ford will be the principal speaker at the annual Christmas program and supper sponsored by the Elks Club, John Joe Campbell chairman of the speaker's committee announced today. The event will be held at the Holiday Inn on December 11 at 7:00 p. m.

The dinner, one of the major activities of the local fraternal group, is staged to raise funds to bring a happier Christmas to the needy children in the twin cities.

Ford, a much sought after public speaker will bring a message of holiday significance to the large number of members and guests expected to attend the event.

The Lieutenant Governor's wide experience in community affairs and the problems of the needy, achieved during his long service as a state and national figure and as a distinguished lawmaker will give a special impetus to the annual holiday program of the local Elks.

Ford is also President of the State Senate, Chairman of the Legislative Research Commission and a member of the Kentucky Turnpike Authority, the Archives and Records Commission, and the State Property and Buildings Commission. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the National Lieutenant Governors' Conference. He is also Kentucky Chairman for the 1969 March of Dimes for funds to control birth defects.

Ford, a forty-four year old native of Owensboro, Kentucky, has been a consistent worker in state, national and international civic affairs. He was chosen the outstanding young man of his community in 1954 and was voted one of the three outstanding young men in Kentucky in 1955. Ford was elected State President of the Jaycees for 1954-55. Moving up, he served as National President of the Jaycees in 1956-57 and

A Thanksgiving Visitor Sheds Light On God's Work On Earth

The phrase "beautiful people," has come to remind us of the socially smart, well dressed, and sophisticated people navigating in the whirl of the Washington social scene.

We've read about them, even know some of them. But Saturday night, right here in Fulton we met one of the most beautiful people we've ever known. This is not to mean that she is a madonna-like individual that the slick magazines may have reference to, though our new friend is most attractive.

But for sure she is madonna-like inside, in her heart, her mind her outlook on life, her fellowman and her faith.

Her name is Carroll English. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ralph Wadlow of Fort Myers, Florida. She is the niece of Margaret Whitnel.

It was our rare pleasure to become acquainted with her last Saturday night at a small gathering at the Whitnel home. She is 30, a handsome brunette and one of the most, if perhaps not the most intellectually stimulating people ever to attempt conversation with this only average intelligent reporter.

And what deserves all these superlatives?

It is the fact that in this world in which we live today, where the norm is to seek a kind of pseudo-security and live with it, Carroll began a search in her early life to find a peace of mind, a faith to live by, a mission to accomplish to leave some footprints on the sands of time that she had been here.

Her life is so full and too amazing to delineate in one short bit of writing in one small newspaper. As a teacher in Cuba she learned the language, she sought out the philosophers, she went far into the mountains to talk with the soothsayers in the remote villages, to learn of their healing powers and their influences among their pagan neighbors.

You see, for most of her adult life Carroll has been quite ill, with a malady that even specialists in the arena of medical science could not diagnose, nor cure.

She went to specialists in other allied fields, to no avail. And suddenly last summer Carroll made a momentous decision in her life. Without telling her family, she booked passage to the Philippines in search of a far-away healer whose name was Dr. Tony Agtaoa. Carroll did not go into the specifics of making the appointment, nor the detailed background of her travel plans.

Alcoholic-Drug Council To Meet

The Twin Cities--Fulton County Council on Alcoholism and Drug Education will meet Tuesday, December 9, at 4:00 p.m. at the Fulton Health Center. Leaders of civic organizations and the standing members of the Council are urged to attend the important meeting.

Don Brock, assistant co-ordinator of the alcohol program of the Regional Mental Health Center, will make a presentation on drug abuse and what can be done locally in the way of preventive education.

The Council is interested in co-ordinating the efforts of all in the community who are concerned about the abuse of alcohol and drugs. If any community organization is interested in having an educational program on alcohol or drug abuse, please attend this meeting.

For information contact the Fulton Mental Health Clinic at 472-1760, or contact the Chairman of the Council, Hunter Whitesell at 472-1094.

Reward Offered For Martin Woman Believed Kidnapped

Mrs. Mary Chamberlain 25 was at her home. She had left her home to invite some neighbors to have cake with her, a it was her birthday.

There has been no trace of her, but it is believed that she was brought across the Kentucky State Line. It is believed by her husband that she was kidnapped.

There is a $100 reward to anyone having any information as to the whereabouts of this woman. Anyone who can give information as to her whereabouts, please notify the Martin or Fulton Police Dept. or contact her husband, Harold Chamberlain, in Martin, Tennessee. His telephone number is Area Code 901-587-6525.

Fulton Postmaster Joe Treas announced this week that the local postoffice windows would be open all day on Saturday December 6 and 13 to accommodate patrons.

News Extends Forum For Labor Leader's Views Of His Arrest

Charles E. Mingus, active in the labor negotiations at the Ferry-Morse Seed Company strike spent six hours in the Fulton City Jail on Saturday, November 22. His brush with Police Judge Don Hill and City Prosecutor James Warren came about because he allegedly called the local court proceedings "a kangaroo court."

Mingus, a veteran of the labor negotiation wars, was fined 30 hours in the local jail, but was released after six hours when a Kentucky statute, (specifying that a person can be held only six hours in the city jail on such a charge) was called to the attention of local law enforcement officials.

The labor negotiator appears to be no novice of the laws governing court procedures. In fairness to Mr. Mingus, and others, the News herewith, publishes a letter handed to the editors last Saturday. Publishing the letter is in accordance with the policy of this newspaper to serve as a public forum for individuals to express their views of local events.

was issued by the Fulton County Court. Her trial was set for December 2 before Judge John E. Cruise.

In discussing Mrs. Conn's encounter with Mr. Warren in police court on November 22, County Attorney James Amberg, Judge Cruise and Mrs. Conn's attorney from the law firm of Carroll Hubbard and Associates of Mayfield, they were of the opinion that Warren's proceedings were to put Mrs. Conn under a peace bond.

A story of the charges placed against Mrs. Conn and a result of a hearing conducted before Judge Cruise appear elsewhere in this issue.

Here is Mr. Mingus' letter: "This past Saturday, November 22, 1969, the Headlines of the Fulton Daily Leader read 'UNION NEGOTIATOR JAILED FOR CONTEMPT OF COURT.'" rather than $1,000.00, was read. "City Attorney James Warren, lashed out at Mrs. Conn in a most aggressive verbal manner. Warren stated that he was a friend of the party swearing out the Peace Bond Warrant and spoke glowingly of her virtues. He then proceeded to chastise Mrs. Conn with allegations in front of the Court.

He twice asked her if she was ready to stand trial. Both times she advised him that she was not ready and that her attorney was not present. Warren finally agreed to permit Mrs. Conn to call her attorney and stated that she could have forty minutes to prepare her case.

By this time, Mrs. Conn appeared to me to be near hysteria as a result of Warren's verbal barrage.

"Mrs. Conn and I left the Court Room and were permitted to use the phone to call her attorney. We were in the phone for some time.

Bond for Mrs. Conn was set at $500. She is also under a

Mrs. Conn Is Bound Over To Grand Jury

The charge of assault and battery against Mrs. Frances Conn was bound over to the January session of the Grand Jury following a hearing before Judge Elmer Cruise on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Conn was charged as a result of an altercation with Mrs. Mary Jeffress on the night of November 19 following a meeting of the Grain Millers union at the Holiday Inn.

The Controversy Raging 'Round The Caboose Is Silly; Keep It For A Real Attraction

The storm of controversy raging around the little ole red caboose on Lake Street is the most ridiculous effort we've encountered in many years. Whether it should be removed or carted away has become a "cause celebre," the likes of which we've never seen.

Proponents of the giant decision as to whether it should remain or stay have carried the implications into the far remote possibilities that if it is removed the Illinois Central Railroad might revise some of its expansion plans here.

Opponents of the issue as to whether it should remain in its position on Lake Street have dubbed it an eyesore and a blight on the community.

How silly can you get in this world?

People have asked us in the most serious tones if we intend to take a stand on the issue as though it were a matter of life and death to the absolute future of the twin cities.

Well, we'll take a stand on the matter.

We'll go back to the original intent of the caboose. It was sought after, in the beginning, with the same high level discussion as it is today. It was intended to have a place of honor in the community as an indication that Fulton is a railroad town and the caboose's presence on the main thoroughfare was a reminder to all of us, and to the passers-by, that a whale of a lot of railroading has been going on in these parts, and still is going on, for a good many years past and in the future.

For all practical purposes we still are a railroad community, and as a matter of fact the entire Banana Festival program came into being as a result of our being a vast distribution center, via the railroads, for the fragile fruit from South and Central America.

As we see it, the caboose should not be removed, but more, it should be renovated, made more attractive, even embellish it to such an extent that maybe a banana car can be added with some real promotion for the Banana Festival year-round. Actually, it wouldn't be too bad an idea to maybe move it to the Avenue of the Americas, with all its banana regalia.

If it is removed, as the Fulton City Commission proposes that it should be, certainly there will be no repercussions, or insult to the heirarchy of the Illinois Central Railroad. These people do not predicate their business operations on such frivolous matters as to whether we keep or remove some indication of their operation here.

On the other hand, renovating the caboose, making it a source of community indication that we appreciate this industry, as we do all others, certainly couldn't hurt one living breathing bit.

To tell you the truth, we'd like to see a giant replica of the world's largest banana pudding put astride some tourists thoroughfare one of these days. Of all the inquiries made of us during Banana Festival time the one concerning the "world's largest banana pudding," tops them all.

Give people something to talk about and remember as they come and leave Fulton. Yes, something besides dirty alleys, burned down buildings, slum areas and other real eyesores in this community.

As for the folks who want it removed as an eyesore and a traffic hazard we say poppy-cock. We can hardly remember an accident occurring because the caboose obliterated somebody's vision. And as for being an eyesore, we suggest that the advocates of this clean-up bit take a look at some REALLY BIG nuisances on the community scene that nobody dare attack "for business reasons."

Leave the caboose where it is.

Paint it up, clean it up, use it as a tourist attraction, that can really attract people. We hate to see things torn down. We like to see things built up.

And, in closing, we'd like to challenge the people who want the caboose to remain, if it does, to undertake the task of making it a real, tourist promotion.

But if the people who want it to remain, just to win a silly battle, and don't do anything about it, and it continues to get disreputable looking, then go ahead with the plans to remove it.

Tear Gas: When Is Its Personal Use Legal? States Vary In Providing An Answer

Last spring, a gun owner sitting in his car not far from his home in a Northeastern State was approached by several policemen. After checking his identification, they asked to search his car trunk. He gave permission. In the trunk were his hunting rifle, a pellet gun, and hunting gear. They examined and replaced these.

"They then searched the interior of my car," the gun owner reported. "Under the front seat they found a tear gas pistol which I carried for protection, as I work nights and must pass through a questionable section of the town on my way home. I did not know that I needed a license for this type of gun. This gun was confiscated, and I was arrested on a charge of possessing a dangerous weapon."

Advised to plead guilty, the gun owner did so. As he had no previous record of arrest and it was evident that he did not intend to violate the law, he was released on probation. After he returned home, however, two policemen arrived and confiscated all his hunting guns. He was informed that, having been convicted of a misdemeanor, he could not keep them but could "sell them from the police station within 90 days." Further court action, he said, resulted only in a "conditional discharge"—conditional on his never again in his life owning a gun.

In Kentucky and neighboring Louisiana, the use of tear gas is regulated by State statute with legality depending on the design of the device, its use, and the granting of a permit.

The laws of Tennessee, Arkansas and Illinois prohibit the use of tear gas for personal defense; in Georgia and Missouri the legality of tear gas is in doubt due to the nature of State laws. There are no State laws restricting tear gas in Alabama, Indiana or Mississippi.

LOVE'S PHILOSOPHY

The fountains mingle with the river,
And the rivers with the ocean;
The winds of heaven mix forever,
With a sweet emotion;
Nothing in the world is single;
All things by a law divine
In one another's being mingle—
Why not I with thine?
See! the mountains kiss high heaven,
And the waves clasp one another;
No sister flower would be forgiven
If it disdained its brother;
And the sunlight clasps the earth,
And the moonbeams kiss the sea:
What are all these kissings worth,
If thou kiss not me?

NIGHT RIDERS OF REEL-FOOT LAKE, by Paul J. Vanderwood. The sanguinary struggle that sixty years ago engulfed Tennesseans in the Reelfoot Lake region and captured the attention of the nation, embraced issues that remain relevant today—property rights versus human rights and simple justice versus the vagaries of jurisprudence. Rarely, however, have they been as dramatically contested as they were in 1908 at the lake.

ANYONE WANTING THIS BOOK, WILL HAVE TO PUT THEIR NAME ON THE RESERVE LIST.

The Fulton Public Library is proud to announce that there is a seven volume set of Kentucky Revised Statutes in the library. It is a complete edition of the Kentucky Revised Statutes and contains all statute laws of the Commonwealth of a general nature except those omitted pursuant to KRS 7.134.

THE CHALLENGE, by Billy Graham. This book is a challenge to individuals, to society, to the nation and to the world to recognize the hidden source of today's spiritual problems—the reasons for our problems of boredom, of loneliness, of racial strife and of international war—and to seek the answers where the answer can be found: in acceptance of Jesus Christ as Savior and as Lord.

BOWMANVILLE BREAK, by Sidney Shelley. Based on an actual incident that occurred in a Canadian prisoner-of-war camp, this book is for those who enjoy high tension adventure and suspense. Captain Robert Gallant, Intelligence Officer, arrives at the camp to investigate the attempted murder of one of the German prisoners. He quickly discovers that a massive escape is being planned for twenty-eight of Hitler's most prized U-boat commanders.

YELLOW FLOWERS IN THE ANTIPODEAN ROOM, by Janet Frame. "A skilled clerical worker, European of British birth, twenty, single, not a convicted criminal, not suffering from physical, mental illness, politically placid, beardless, Godfrey Rainbird was well qualified to be accepted as an assisted immigrant to New Zealand. He chose New Zealand as a home because someone in the London office knew someone who had immigrated to Australia and liked it. This was the place he would marry and have a family."

TODAY COUNTS, TOO Through the many years that I have been writing the essays of this column I have occasionally been accused of referring too lovingly to older times and slighting the present. Such has never been my intention, for I lived a long time ago and I am still around here. In fact, I seem to myself to have often been pretty critical of older times, especially when sanitation, neighborhood morality, and general enlightenment are concerned. One of my long-time friends has often said that I remember too well the uglier sides of other times.

As a teacher I could not escape teaching even if I wanted to. Consequently, most of these interminable essays are designed, consciously or unconsciously, to "point a moral or adorn a tale." To look at any present-day fact honestly, we must admit that it had backgrounds. Things do not "just happen." When some fad or other human foible appears, it often has been forming for years; we were too busy to realize that it was developing. If you will look back on the numerous fads that you older ones have seen rise and fall, you will see how they usually followed the same pattern. That may be the reason that I, as an old man, have not become as alarmed as some of my generation when some oddity of human conduct got too much attention. I am always reminded of a phrase from Horace—"in the consulship of Plancus." He is referring to the fact that he is not such a sheik for whatever the Latins called it, not so bouncy, not so much given to attracting attention as he once was.

I like the phrase, also, to date some outbreak of human conduct that can be dated quite as effectively and accurately as a consulship or a Presidential term. Remember, you old timers, how often, in your boyhood, you heard older people fear that the whole race is sliding down a steep hill to ruin. The subject might be just anything: politics, for example, furnished a lot of Fidelity talk; just one more such campaign, say, the one of 1900, seemed the last scenes of the tragedy. Why, women, young and old, were wearing rats, horrible things in themselves and sure signs of a breakup or breakdown of morals!

And patent-leather shoes for men furnished many a text for lamenting the corruption of the young. Every new style in clothes or hair brought out a standing army to defend the status quo or, usually, some perfect time of moral conduct, as in the days of Father and Mother or, preferably, Grandpa and Grandma.

Having spent most of my life in studying folklore in its many forms, I can recall dozens of similar fearful times. "Whatever is, is wrong" could have been taken as a text for many of the critics of the human race as they chawed their tobacco around the country-store.

Headquarters, Mrs. Conn reached her attorney, Carroll Hubbard, but was in such a state she could not convey what was happening. Upon her request I endeavored to explain to Mr. Hubbard what was happening. "I stated that in my opinion the City Attorney was attempting to run the Court like a Kangaroo Court. Warren came into the room in a rage and interrupted me on several occasions so I finally gave him the phone."

"After Warren's telephone conversation with Mr. Hubbard, Warren and I re-entered the Court Room. Warren asked me why I was involved and I answered that Mrs. Conn was a personal friend and that I didn't think that was any of his business. At this time, people were walking in and out of the Court Room, talking and smoking. To my shock and surprise, Warren immediately said: 'Judge, I want this man held in Contempt of Court for calling it a Kangaroo Court.' Warren then said something about so many hours in jail or $30.00 and that he wanted the hours in jail. I inquired if I could make Bond but was told NO."

"I was immediately escorted from the Court Room. Warren shouted, 'Shake that man down.' I asked a friend of mine in the hall to call my attorney in Louisville. I was relieved of the contents in my pockets and within two minutes from the back of the Court Room to the Judge's Bench I was stretched out on the steel slats of the Fulton Jail. Approximately three and one half hours later I found out from a friend who visited me that I was in for 30 hours but that it was reasonably certain that I would be released because of some technicality and/or some irregularity. I was brought before the Judge and Attorney Warren after about 6 hours. They were nice and told me they had checked the Statutes or Laws and they couldn't hold me for 30 hours, but if I again spoke derogatory IN OR AROUND the Court, of the Court I would be subject to a lengthy prison term and a fine. I said THANK YOU SIR and left the Court."

"This account is not one of a big city boy. I have in fact lived in a township of less than 600 population and was the town board chairman for 6 years. I thus know some of the problems encountered by public officials."

"Is this the end of the story? NO -- I promise to use every honorable method to assure that: THIS CANNOT HAPPEN IN FULTON - IT CANNOT HAPPEN IN AMERICA - IT WILL NOT HAPPEN AGAIN TO ANYONE IN FULTON."

"YES I intend to return to Fulton whenever my business dictates or whenever I may be of assistance to MY FRIENDS."

Hats are among the best friends a woman's face can have, for they kindly soften and shade it. Despite the decline in popularity of hats, not a single top fashion designer presents a collection without hats, for they all know very well that a hat is an indispensable element of an elegant ensemble. There are certain social occasions when it is obligatory for a woman to wear a hat--at weddings, funerals, christenings--in fact, at any church service--at elegant or official luncheons, teas, cocktail parties, at all diplomatic receptions. The errors we most often make in wearing hats are to wear a far too dressy hat in the daytime and a not dressy enough one in the evening. Mrs. Catherine C. Thompson, Hickman, Ky. 42050 Phone 236-2351.

BUYING A DISHWASHER-- Look for a model that has full-size spray arms at top and bottom, plus a central spray. This gives more uniform washing as well as rinsing. The larger loading capacity is also worth the extra cost as the average family operates the dishwasher only once a day and cooking utensils can be washed also. Junita Amonett, Courthouse, Paducah, Ky. 42001 Phone 442-2718.

Need bread crumbs for your holiday cooking? These can be made either by hand or in your blender. To prepare soft bread crumbs by hand, use a gentle shredding motion to pull off fine crumbs with the fingers or fork. Coarser crumbs are made by pulling off larger pieces. To speed up the process,

CHORAL CONCERT Approximately 150 students will perform in the annual fall Choral Concert at The University of Tennessee at Martin to be held in the University Center ballroom at 8 p.m. on Monday, December 8.

SELECTING A GOOD TOY-- Toddlers 18 months to 3 years-- The child is more active and his desire to talk, ride and explore has greatly increased. He has a vivid imagination and has fun with playthings that imitate grownup activity: stick horses, small tricycles, wagons, dress-up clothes, dolls and doll furniture, simple picture books, clay and small gym equipment.

MANAGEMENT--How can we know that we have been successful in management? What are some evidences? May be these guidelines would help: Does each member of the family understand the basic problems, such as how to get along with each other, satisfy needs for food, clothing shelter, etc? Does each member have an opportunity to take part in decision making? Are they able to make adjustments when a decision is made? Is there freedom to discuss controversial matters in the family group? Do individual members have a chance to make independent choices and be responsible for the results? Does family members show initiative and leadership in management? Does everyone contribute to the family to the extent of his ability without demanding undue sacrifice of other members?--Irma Hamilton, Courthouse, Mayfield, Ky. 42066 Phone 247-2334.

To keep foliage clean on house plants, use a soft, damp cloth to remove the dust. A few drops of olive oil on a soft cloth can also be used and will leave the foliage shining. Home, Garden Members Plan Nashville Trip

Planning a party for 800? That is how many people are expected to accept the formal invitation to visit Cheekwood in Nashville on Friday night, December 5, to attend the opening "Gala" better known as "Christmas at Cheekwood" where 23 decorated Christmas trees from many lands will be on display.

Those attending this eventful program will be members of the Cheekwood Association and the Davidson County Horticultural Society. The exhibit will be open to the public daily for 2 weeks--Dec. 6-20.

The multitudes attending the opening night will be entertained by a quartet of medieval madrigals from Blair Academy, singing in the drawing room; Beegee Bruser's Combo playing in the gallery upstairs; and the Hi-Lites, a men's quartet, singing Christmas carols at the top of the stairs. Foods and delicacies of many lands will be served in each room around the decorated trees.

The Home and Garden Department of the Fulton Woman's Club is sponsoring a daytime bus tour to Cheekwood on December 9th, leaving the Methodist parking lot in Fulton at 7:30 a.m. Seats for the return trip to Cheekwood will be $5, with preference going to the Garden Club members. Dear Ann Landers.

Ann Can Really Tell It Like It Is

Dear Ann Landers: Sooner or later your column hits everybody between the eyes. We got ours a few days ago. It was that letter from the woman whose son looked just like "the other man."

We too have a son who bears a startling (and embarrassing) resemblance to "the other man." But emotionally he's mine and this is what counts.

There's more to being a father than being a party to the conception. I couldn't be prouder of this lad if I were certain he was flesh of my flesh. He is everything a father could want in a son. The gnawing suspicion that he is another man's child doesn't diminish my love for him one iota.

The "other man" lives in this city and we see him and his wife from time to time. They have several daughters--no sons, I'm sure every time he looks at this boy he dies a little. Fate can be cruel, I figure I was the lucky one. Print this if you think it will help that poor son-of-a-gun who signed himself "Tortured By Doubts."--Also Doubting But No Longer Tortured

Dear Also: Here it is with my special thanks for sharing something painfully close to you.

Dear Ann Landers: A dear friend of mine is being played for a fool. Her husband, who is crowding 60, is fooling around with a woman 25 years his junior. He belongs to a club that meets twice a month. After he says hello to everyone and is recorded as "present," he sneaks out. The babe meets him at the door and they go off together. My husband is in the club and so is my son-in-law. They are both on to the game--and so is everyone else.

This bum has a wonderful business and a fine family. I hate to see him get away with such cheap hi-jinks. If my husband was cheating, I'd certainly appreciate it if someone wised me up. Should I be a true friend and tell her?--London, Ont.

Dear London: Be a true friend and keep your mouth shut. More often than not the wife is aware but she prefers to behave as if she knows nothing. This excuses her from making a move which might not be in her best interest--or in the best interest of her family. Informing a woman that her husband is cheating is no act of friendship. Real friends spare you grief. They don't come with stories that hurt your heart.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever my husband and I are out in a social group I am embarrassed to tears. All my husband wants to talk about is sex. He tells such raw jokes I want to crawl under the table and stay there. He doesn't seem to know any clean stories--only dirty ones.

To listen to him talk you'd think sex was the most important thing in his life. And this is what baffles me. To put it bluntly, Ann, he is completely over the hill. And I mean completely.

Wouldn't you think a man who CAN'T perform would stay off the subject? Please explain.---Raleigh, N.C.

Dear R.: Men who CAN perform DO stay off the subject. The ones who are over the hill have the one track minds--and the track is usually muddy. The non-performers talk about sex because that's all they can do--poor things. Now do you get it, honey?

Christmas can be a problem. What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' new book, "Truth Is Stranger," is available in book stores. It can also be obtained by writing Prentice Hall, Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey. Price, $4.95.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Bigger Checks Mayfield Meet Coming For To Discuss New War Widows Cattle Breed

Bigger checks for approximately 168,000 widows are due in January, Donald E. Johnson, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, announced today.

Signed by the President on October 27, 1969, a new law (PL 91-96) authorizes increases for most widows of servicemen and veterans who are eligible for dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC). DIC payments, Johnson explained, are authorized for widows of servicemen and veterans who died on or after January 1, 1957, of service-connected causes.

The new legislation does not affect payments to survivors receiving compensation under laws that preceded the DIC program.

New DIC rates provide $167 monthly for the widow of the lowest ranking enlisted man compared to a minimum of $134 at present. Similar increases are provided for eligible widows of other enlisted men and officers.

Effective December 1, the increase will show up first in checks received in January. This increase is automatic and no application is needed.

Widows with minor children will get an extra $20 per month per child under the legislation. With few exceptions, they get nothing extra now. Forms for making application for children's allowances will be mailed to all widows automatically, Johnson said.

DIC payments have been tied to military pay through a complex formula. In raising DIC rates, Congress discarded the complex formula and provided a table of payments based on pay grade.

DIC recipients who are patients in nursing homes, or who are helpless or blind to the point that they need regular aid and attendance of another person, may receive an extra $50 per month under the law.

An informative meeting of one of America's newest breeds, the Simmental will be held at the Graves County Extension Office on Thursday, December 4th at seven o'clock p.m. (7:00 p.m.).

Mr. Travers Smith, of Cardston, Alberta, Canada, who headed up the first importations of Simmental cattle to North America, will be the featured speaker.

The only Simmental (a Swiss breed) in North America at the present time are located in Canada, and United States cattle producers are using Simmental bulls through A. I. programs.

This breed of cattle has tremendous growth and weight for age, has excellent meat type conformation, and have shown their ability to produce under conditions here in the United States.

The Simmental, whose color pattern resembles the Hereford breed, first made its presence known on this continent in 1967. The Simmental cow is a high milk producer with a 4% butterfat content. The breed is known as a hardy and thrifty type cattle with gentle dispositions.

All cattlemen interested in crossbreeding or breeding up to registered Simmental are cordially invited to attend this informal meeting and learn more about this important new breed.

Thursday, December 4, 7:00 p.m., Graves County Courthouse.

Loan Rates Made Known For Tobacco

The directors and management of Western Dark Fired Tobacco Association announced recently the loan rates for both fire-cured and dark air-cured tobaccos.

Grade loan rates for Kentucky fire-cured tobacco, Type 23, are based on an average loan level of 44.6 cents per pound or an increase of $1.50 per one hundred pounds over last year. The grade loan rates range from 26 cents to 66 cents per pound.

Loan rates for dark air-cured, Type 35 tobacco, are based on an average of 39.7 cents per pound, an increase of $1.40 per one hundred pounds over last year. Dark air-cured loan rates range from 28 cents to 56 cents per pound.

Holmes Ellis, General Manager of the Association, stated that reports from the eleven districts in Kentucky and Tennessee indicate that the crop is as good or better than last year with a good color.

The fire-cured crop, 1968, averaged $49.91 per hundred pounds last year, an increase of $6.36 per hundred pounds over the previous crop. The new crop is expected to average appreciably more than last year.

Growers will offer their tobacco in the usual manner and price supports will be available to cooperating growers through the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Growers Association using the services and facilities of auction warehouses. Marketing opening dates have not been announced.

By Mrs. Carey Fields

The Rev. Bobby Copeland filled his regular appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday, at 11 a.m., and also the evening services, which followed the BTU meeting. Sunday school is held at 10 a.m. On next Sunday afternoon singing will be held at usual dates, the first Sunday Dec. 7. All singers are cordially invited.

Mrs. Buton Lassiter was carried to the Volunteer Hospital in Martin, Tenn., Sunday by a Jackson Ambulance. She is suffering from complications, requiring some blood transfusions. Each of us hope for her a soon recovery.

Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grover True were: Mr. and Mrs. Bell Farmer of St. Louis, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. H. R. True and son and Mrs. Lenora True of New Florence, Mo.

News reached us of the death of Earl Stinson this district number 1, early Sunday, at his home. He suffered an attack of pneumonia. Funeral and burial place are not known by your writer at this writing. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Beatrice Stinson.

Sp-41 Lisen B. Lassiter will arrive this week from Kaiserlautern, Germany, on 30 day furlough. He will report on Jan. 2, to return to his base there, where he will serve another year of duty.

Get-well wishes are sent to Mr. Clarence Berryman, who is a patient in Madison County General Hospital, under treatment and observation.

Reports from the bedside of Bill Cantrell are most favorable. He is a patient in Veterans' Hospital, in Memphis, Tenn., suffering from a broken ankle, and expects to get home soon.

The condition of Mr. Emmett Acree remains critical in the Fulton Hospital. His sister Mrs. Rebecca Mayo remains at his bedside along with other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mathis of the Weakley County Rest Home were able to spend Thanksgiving Day with their children, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Mathis, then they returned to the rest home.

Your writer had as my Thanksgiving guests, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Fields and son, Kerry, of Tullahoma, Tenn., leaving here for Hickman, Ky., to visit their children Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Argo, Chad and Kimberly; the remainder of the holidays. All of us have enjoyed their visit.

A new well has gone down at the J. Carritt Richmond home last week, bathroom installed, a new roof is on, and inside some panning put up, which adds to the convenience of their home near here.

ROUTE THREE

Mrs. Aline Williams

Cpl. Carl Lewis who is in the California, since coming back to the states from Vietnam, is home on a months leave with his wife, relatives and friends in and around Fulton. We are very happy to have Carl home.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Olsheski and son of Detroit, Mich., spent the Thanksgiving weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Bailly, north of Fulton.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Williams of Mayfield, spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams and Kora.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Antoslok of Detroit, Mich., visited Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hopkins in South Fulton the latter part of last week, and all visited with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams, Friday. They returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gavrock and family of Memphis, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cannon on Dec. 12, over the Thanksgiving holidays, 1969, at the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Jones and daughter of Paducah, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Bushart in South Fulton, and also visited us Saturday, in the p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. James Gavrock, Mr. and Mrs. David Brown and Mr. and Mrs. George Cannon were dinner guests, Friday, with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cannon. Then Saturday, Mrs. Brann had them all at her place for dinner. So the family had a good get together for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Effie Croft has worked the past few days in my place at the Dollar General Store. I have had a deep cold, but I am better at this writing.

Chestnut Glade

By Mrs. Harvey Vaughan

Another Thanksgiving has passed with many visitors in the community and many bountiful meals enjoyed. It is hoped that everyone paused at this lovely season to give thanks for the many blessings that each person has received along with some sadness during the past year. It must be remembered that into every life some rain must fall and that we would be unable to enjoy the bright hours if there were no dark days.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Copeland and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hensler from Memphis visited Mr. and Mrs. Billie Copeland, Sr. and Gary during the holiday weekend.

A bountiful Thanksgiving dinner was enjoyed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Verhines by Mrs. Eva Brann, Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan, Mrs. Doron Colley and Mrs. Lucy Gibbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brundige enjoyed a turkey and all the trimmings dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Arlis Sprayberry and Mr. and Mrs. Ricahrd Crider and son in Fulton.

Mrs. Van Brann who suffered a broken arm recently and has been at the home of her niece, Mrs. Earl Gossum, in Benton, Ky., and with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. John Verhine. She appears to be recovering nicely at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Sims served a bountiful Thanksgiving meal to Mr. and Mrs. Aron Todd and Mike from Milan, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brundige, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barber and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan.

Mrs. Totsy Gilliam who has been a patient in the hospital in Paducah for the past several weeks, due to serious injury in a car wreck is reported to be recovering slowly.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Arlin Barber who passed away last Friday after being a patient at the hospital for a few days. The funeral was at the New Hope Baptist Church Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Colley spent the Thanksgiving holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Wade and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Colley in Morehead, Ky. and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gorgan in Nashville.

TB Seals Showing Up In Mailboxes

Christmas seals, an early sign that Christmas is approaching, have begun showing up in mailboxes throughout Kentucky as the annual Christmas seal campaign to fight tuberculosis, emphysema and other respiratory diseases, and air pollution, gets underway. "Christmas seal contributions are a matter of life and breath," according to Dr. E. N. Maxwell, president of the Kentucky TB and Respiratory Disease Association. He noted that in 1968 more than 1,000 new active cases of TB were reported to the State Health Department and that emphysema ranks second as a cause for disability allowances in the state.

"It is vital," Maxwell said, "that tuberculosis associations receive generous support in order that they may continue vigorous efforts against TB and emphysema, the latter of which is skyrocketing at an alarming rate."

The campaign extends through December 31.

VETS REP. COMING
H. S. Miles, a Contact Representative of the Kentucky Disabled Ex-Service Men's Board will be present on Dec. 12, at the Chamber of Commerce in Fulton, Ky., to assist veterans and their dependents with claims for benefits due them as a result of their military service. He will be present from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m.

If only I had been born with the ability to reason and all the wisdom great decisions require.

Then I'd ask Daddy to teach me a prayer.

And I'd ask Mommy to read me a Bible story.

And, if nobody offered to take me, I'd walk myself to Sunday School.

But, as things are, I've no more say about my destiny than a missile has. You grown-ups decide how high—or how low—my life shall be aimed! And when to launch me! And where!

And, from what I hear, some of us never get off the ground.

as International Vice President in 1958-59.

Ford was Chief Administrative Assistant to Governor Bert Combs from December 1959 to November 1961. Next, Ford was elected to the State Senate, representing Daviess and Hancock Counties during 1966 and 1967. He was elected to a four-year term as Kentucky's Lieutenant Governor in November 1967.

Ford attended the University of Kentucky and is a graduate of the Maryland School of Insurance.

In 1968 Ford was named as honorary member of the Leos--the international youth service club sponsored by Lions International. Ford is the first American to receive this honor.

Convinced that most young Americans are able and willing to take a responsible part in public affairs, Ford works to provide them with challenging opportunities. He is chairman of a new organizational, Educational Programs, Inc., Berea, which assists many Kentucky college students in obtaining summer jobs. Also, in 1968 he led the effort which made sweeping changes in Kentucky's Democratic Party rules. The new rules guarantee that at least one-third of Kentucky's 9030 precinct committee members shall be less than 36 years old and that all 120 county Democratic executive committees and the Kentucky State Democratic Executive Committee include members 35 or younger.

Ford's many civic activities have included: Local Director of the Civitan International, member of the President's Council on Youth Fitness, member of National Council for Religion in American Life, member of Kentucky Council of Education, and finance chairman of Audubon Council of Boy Scouts of America. In 1953, Ford was singled out by the American Cancer Society for his outstanding contributions against cancer. He received the Society's Kentucky layman award.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church, Owensboro.

Hello From Mandel

Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Winston and daughter Penelope, flew to Denver, Colorado over the Thanksgiving weekend to visit their son, Dr. Ken Winston, Resident Neuro Surgeon at the Colorado General Hospital. They visited the Vale Colorado Ski Resort, one of the most famous in the world. Mandel Brown was their guest for supper while visiting there. Mandel, former band instructor at Fulton High School, sends all his friends a big "hello."

Fulton High Band On Road To Glory

Fulton's High School Band is already in the process of obtaining many high honors with their new director, Jack Sublette.

As approximately seven thousand people watched, Fulton City's band proudly marched themselves into the third place position in the band competition at the annual Christmas Parade in Union City.

B&PW Exchange Gifts After Meeting

The members of the Fulton-South Fulton B&PW Club got into the spirit of Christmas last Tuesday night at their December meeting, held at the Park Terrace. After a buffet dinner, a short business session was conducted by the President, Anna Lou Caldwell. Zanita Phelps was in charge of the program, and in true school-teacher style, she had her "children" choose sides and compete in several games. The losing side entertained the winners by singing Christmas Carols to them.

Each member brought a gift to send to Western State Hospital, and also a gift for exchange at the end of the program.

Paducah Collectors Plan Flea Market

The Chief Paducah Collectors Club will sponsor a Flea Market Sunday, December 7th, at the Jaycee Civic Center, 28th and Park Ave., Paducah, Kentucky. The event will be open to the public and will last all day. There will be plenty of free parking. Admission will be by donation to be given to a local charity.

There will be over 50 dealers at the show selling, buying and displaying antiques, coins, guns, stamps, Jim Beam Bottles and many other collectable items.

Carroll English

But her arrival in Dr. Tony's hospital-clinic, and the events and experiences she witnessed there make her story much more amazing than any non-fiction material we've ever read.

As a matter of fact Carroll showed us slides of her amazing treatment, and surgery, by Dr. Tony, so completely unbelievable that had our eyes not seen the actual account we would have dismissed it as a make-believe story of the first water.

To dwell briefly on the medical phase of her abdominal and back surgery we can only say that we saw it performed without medical instruments, without anesthesia, without even so much as stitching the incisions after the surgery.

The doctor used his hands, without surgical gloves, to open the incision and remove the tissue, and after finishing the surgery, with some magnetic phenomenon, the flesh meshed together again, without a scar.

Fantastic? Ridiculous? Hypnosis? Maybe a little of all these allegations, but then there is Carroll to appraise.

She is beautifully educated, a degree from the University of Florida in Tallahassee, a Master's Degree from Garrett Theological School of the University of Chicago. She is well traveled, well read, well informed and intellectually oriented to the highest plateau of insight as to how the world turns. She has appropriated her summers to doing mission work in a remote village in Austria to build, yes with mortar and stone and menial labor, a church for displaced persons. A similar task she undertook one year in Texas for the poor and the down-trodden.

Her eyes sparkle with the new health she is enjoying. She is ebullient when she talks of the work of the Stelle (pronounced s-tell) group in Chicago, where she is a teacher. This group consists of some 60 persons in the United States whose dedication it is to propagate the true meaning of Christianity.

A probing reporter, cynical of even the most empirical data, asked: "Would you say that you are a religious fanatic, are you really well, or have you such faith in God, that you have convinced yourself, mentally and physically, that you are no longer ill?"

This dynamic young lady, yes, that's what the News publisher called her, accepted the question with a smile.

"No, I am not," she answered quietly. "I have a deep faith in the powers of God, but I also have a faith in what God has given Man the powers to do, and I am trying to achieve that high plane of doing His work as He would have humans do."

A beautiful philosophy, from a beautiful missionary of Christ on earth.

NOTEBOOK—

Here's A Good Golfing Story

THERE ARE many days in the life of a golfer when it seems everything goes wrong and players threaten to commit suicide, volunteer to enter mental institutions, or just go underground and stay there.

Like a couple of golfers at Breck not long ago who weren't parring the course and becoming more disgusted after playing every hole. They were showing signs of fatigue, both mentally and physically.

We'll call 'em Bill and Bob.

Bill was beginning to worry about Bob. So on the ninth hole he pretended to hit an imaginary ball just off the grass toward the cup. Bob ran to take the pin out of the cup and yelled, "Come on! Come on! Drop in the cup, baby!"

Whereupon Bill walked up, put his hand on Bob's shoulder, sadly shook his head, and admitted: "Bob, there wasn't any ball involved. Old buddy, maybe you'd better consult a psychiatrist."

Bob looked amazed.

"But Bill, old pal," he said, "I was just doing it to help you. I thought you were thinking you really hit a ball!"

Postmaster Treas Urges Early Mailings For Christmas Parcels

"Don't take a chance on disappointing someone you love, send your gift parcels and cards early enough to insure their delivery before Christmas not after," Postmaster Joe Treas advised today.

"On the day after Christmas a post office building can be the most depressing place in the world, if it still contains a mountain of messages of love and cheer that didn't make it because they were mailed too late."

Such disappointments can be avoided if Christmas mailers will observe the following mailing schedule.

Gift parcels going to distant states should be mailed by December 4. Parcels going to local and nearby areas should be mailed not later than December 13.

The name and address of both the sender and addressee should be enclosed in each gift parcel to permit identity in case of damage or loss of the outside address label. The outside label should be placed on only one side of each parcel.

Greeting cards going to distant states should be mailed not later than December 10. Cards going to local and nearby areas should be in the mail by December 15.

Postmaster Treas also emphasized the importance of using Zip Codes and adding a return address to all Christmas mail. It only takes a couple extra seconds, but pays big dividends.

ZIP Codes enable postal employees to sort and handle the mail faster. A return address insures that mail that can't be delivered because of an illegible or incomplete mailing address will be returned to the sender.

"A return address might not seem very important," Mr. Treas noted, "but last year over 32 billion pieces of mail went to the postal dead letter branches because the mailing address couldn't be read and there was no return address on the envelope. If you estimate the worth of each of these pieces at twenty-five cents, including postage, postal customers lost over $7.5 million last year to dead letter offices. None of this would have happened if the envelopes had contained a return address."

The personnel of the Fulton Post Office appreciate very much the fine cooperation we have received from our patrons, in the past years and know that we can expect the same splendid cooperation during this Christmas Season.

Educational Group Includes Archie Dykes

Dr. Archie R. Dykes, chancellor of the University of Tennessee at Martin, has been appointed to a four-man advisory committee of the Southern Regional Education Board to formulate a program for the development of college and university administrators.

Other members of the committee are Dr. Otis Singletary, president of the University of Kentucky, Dr. Hugh McEniry, vice chancellor of the University of North Carolina and Dr. David Matthews, president of the University of Alabama.

The SREB is proceeding under the assumption that the governing of higher educational institutions has become a critical area and special attention must be given to help define and clarify the relationships of the groups making up the campus community, and the internal and external pressures causing changes in these relationships.

"The development of capable administrators is crucial," Dr. Dykes commented. "In today's contemporary society there is a need for information and assistance in the identification, training, and promotion of career patterns of persons for present and future leadership positions."

The newly-created committee will convene in Atlanta Tuesday to discuss the possibilities for a program of regional cooperation in the development of higher educational administrators.

Eisenhower Painting Is Purchased

LONDON — U.S. Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg has purchased at auction a 17-year-old painting by President Dwight D. Eisenhower for $6,720.

The painting, a portrait of British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, 82, was put up for sale by Montgomery because he said he thought it belonged in the United States.

The American Embassy said later that Annenberg would offer the painting to the British government with the suggestion that it be hung in the British Embassy in Washington.

Montgomery, Ike's comrade in arms during World War II, recalled that he sat for Eisenhower while he was the general's deputy as supreme allied commander in Paris.

Army Missile Plant Strike Comes To End

LAWNDALE, Calif. — A strike at the Lawndale Army Missile plant, which halted production of the Shillelagh missile for 20 days, has ended with United Automobile and Aerospace Workers agreeing to a new three-year contract.

The strike involved 800 workers.

Ray Harm Is Great As An Entertainer Too

By HALL ALLEN

Sun-Democrat Special Writer

If Ray Harm ever decides to quit painting birds and animals and wild flowers he can make it as a standup comedian.

He proved it Monday night as he took time out from preaching conservation and explaining the techniques of wildlife painting to give the hilarious details of a dinner he attended at the White House.

More than 300 persons attended "An Evening with Ray Harm," which was sponsored by the Ray Harm Gallery in the Paducah Bank and Trust Co. The dinner was held in the Jaycee Civic Center.

A new wildlife film, "The Last Great Strand," narrated by Harm was shown. It was made in the Corkscrew Swamp of Florida which Harm and two other wildlife artists, Guy Coheleach and Don Eckert, helped save through the sale of prints of their paintings.

Harm's narration of the film was a masterpiece of simple but poetic language, but it was his story of the White House dinner that captured the audience. Wide-eyed as a kid in a toy shop, he told of receiving an invitation to dinner during the administration of Lyndon B. Johnson. He said he pondered for sometime whether it would be worth the price of a tuxedo, but finally decided to go when he found that he could rent one for $13.65. He made the trip after reading up on White House etiquette in an encyclopedia.

He said he got along fine, only he couldn't think of anything to say to the President except "all the folks back home wanted to say howdy."

Harm said he never found out how he happened to get the invitation. Since President Johnson had been having troubles with a portrait artist, reporters were anxious to find out whether he had been commissioned to do pictures of the President and his family.

"I told them no," he said. "I just painted real birds. No Lady Birds."

He summed up the dinner with, "We ate real good there."

Answering questions from the audience he revealed that he has commissions for paintings now to keep him busy 12 years, that he now gets from $1,000 to $16,000 for each of his paintings. He added that the owner of the original painting of his Eagle and Osprey had refused an offer of $80,000 for it. Harm denied that he has broken business relations with Wood Hannah, Louisville business man, who gave him his first break several years ago. Harm said the rumor of the break started when he went west some months ago to do pictures of western animals and birds.

Shown at the dinner was a printer's proof of the next Harm print, that of a meadow lark. His next painting will be of a wood thrush, he said.

Also on exhibit was a sample of his newest vehicle — Harm prints on Spode bone china. He was commissioned, he said, to do a set of 12 American birds for the British company. A set of the 12 plates, he said, would sell for "way too much, $330" when they finally go on the market.

Harm told his audience that he never went to school, "so that didn't stand in my way of getting an education." Actually, Harm's formal education ended in the sixth grade in a one-room school on Cheat River in West Virginia. Later he was denied admission to art schools because he could not qualify scholastically. He attended a commercial art school in Cleveland and late was allowed to do some work at the Cleveland Institute of Art. He was for some years a "starving artist" until he was discovered by Dr. Frank Dickey, then president of the University of Kentucky. He was commissioned by Hannah to do 20 paintings, and was employed as a naturalist in Kentucky state parks. He said that under the sponsorship of Hannah, he now has income enough to have his own plane, which he flew to Paducah Monday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Harm.
